A report from [REDACTED] from Resurrection City:

Upon chatting with an unidentified colored woman it was learned that at about 2 AM this morning a group of white people entered the camp and raided the warehouse. It was rumored that these people were going to blow up the place. Arm bands are now needed to mill around the City and [REDACTED] is trying to get one and will continue to cultivate this colored woman.

At about 1000 hours this morning, D.C. transit buses lined up and Poor People entered, destination unknown.
